90 91 Council is really not onboard, but she thought that was a part of the Commission's responsibility for the City and its residents to promote different ideas or work for the City and, if necessary, try to bring the City Council onboard.

Mr. Brooks showed the Commission questions on current and future work plans.

Commissioner Allen indicated what came to mind for him was that he personally did not have any interest in changing the current work plan. His interest is after a work item is completed; he really wants the Commission to evaluate if it should go onto the next years work plan. There will obviously be things that come up during the year that the Commission might want to pivot or add on, just for the fact of responding to community need.

Commissioner Becker explained she appreciated the special meeting and some of the context she has received prior to the meeting has been really helpful. She thought in thinking about the work Plan, from her perspective as a new person coming in, there are just a few items on there. She was curious about the process and how the Commission came to creating the work plan and being able to see that in the past, some of the plans have been done by consensus workshops, or facilitation is really helpful for her and feels like a really equitable process. When she thinks about a consensus or facilitated workshop and being a part of one of those, personally for her, for the next work plan, she thought it was really helpful to understand both a vision and a mission for this Commission specifically. She understood that, looking at the strategic plan, the City has CultureBrokers, staff and she thought it was pretty clear what their vision is for the next few years, some sort of mission behind that followed by some action steps. She thought it would be interesting to try to model that same process for the Commission, understanding the Commission only meets once a month and it might be a more micro-mission statement, but she thought her only recommendation would be if the Commission could figure out what that mission statement is and have that be a part of and physically listed on the agenda every month to help guide conversations and steer conversation in the right direction. She also agreed with Commission Allen that the current work plan does not necessarily need to go away but she was curious about the items that have been completed there, if there is a debrief on those, is there a decision then on how it went and how it should move forward, sort of the process of what that looks like when a work plan item is completed.

Commissioner Haas explained for him being a new member as well, it feels like he would rather stick with the current plan rather than develop anything new. He indicated he was more passionate about the engagement piece with the community and trying to get, not only input from the Commission, but even with regard to the next item, the commitment statement, etc., it is helpful to talk to other people in the community. If he were going to push in one direction, it would be towards the engagement piece and seeking to connect more for the work plan. He was in favor of continuing the current work plan.

Youth Commissioner Xie agreed with Commission Haas regarding community engagement and thought COVID has been hard on that piece. She thought the Commission could implement more community engagement into the work plan since the Commission serves the community and all of the Commissioners are community members.

Commissioner James thought there are some things that will be continuing items on the work plan. The City Council is very interested in the Essay Contest, and he thought that is something the Council will still want to continue. The Commission started but have not finished the proclamations which is also going to be an ongoing thing because they want to be able to tie in the activities and action to go along with the proclamations. This can also involve community outreach. One the work plan everyone has, including the one Mr. Brooks presented to the Commission, there are two items that are not on the work plan that had been on there before. One is the community involvement and outreach and the other one is the proclamations. Those two things need to be added in so on the spreadsheet all of those things are listed on there. The community outreach part is something the Commission started working on a little bit but has fallen by the wayside and no one has been reporting back about that. Even though they are restrictive on COVID, it does not mean the Commission could not be thinking about and generating ideas and plans for the future. He thought these are things that will be ongoing because the community is changing and will not always be the same from year to year and work plan to work plan.

Commissioner McComber explained she worked through each of the questions and ended up with more questions instead of answers. For the first question regarding the new tasks to come from City Administration on equity work, what modifications should be made to the current Council approved work plan. She thought that was hard for the Commission to know at this point because the Commission does not know the importance, the priority of a task that might come from the City Administration and they really have not prioritized the tasks in the current work plan to see which could be removed or delayed if another task came up because they do need to be aware of how much the Commission can accomplish with the time given. The question about which part of the work plan she was most passionate about; the engagement piece and proclamations were important to her. She thought it was powerful to take what could be just a piece of paper with no teeth and add action items, pick out specific proclamations.

Commissioner McComber explained on the third question about what community outreach by the HRIEC look like to be effective, mostly it would be is if the community is aware of the Commission, are the communities the HRIEC trying to reach aware. She thought that was kind of hard to measure. Thoughts about a current timeline for developing the next workplan, she thought it would be nice to be jotting down ideas about that now as they begin to see the new priorities come from Mr. Brooks and CultureBrokers. She thought it was so hard to know how current and future equity initiatives impact. They have to be imbedded in the work the Commission is doing but she did not know what they are right now. When Commissioner Becker talked about a Mission Statement, she always goes back to their duties and functions of evaluating City outreach efforts, advising the City Council on recommendations and strategies an engaging residents and business through City Council programs. That is kind of the lens in which she used to look at things, but she thought there will be some major changes as a result of the CultureBrokers reports and Mr. Brooks's work and observations. Much of it will be internal to the City but much of it involving the Commission and community and she did not think there was sufficient information yet. She would be happy if the Commission could pick out three or four high priority items and drill down into them the strategies and tactics and develop those outcome measures moving forward.

Commissioner Peju thought most of her comments were going to be emphasis. In line with what Commissioners Allen and Haas have shared she agrees with. She also agreed with what Commissioner McComber has talked about. Specifically, since the new Commissioners have come on, her role is to evaluate everything mentioned but what she has observed so far as when it is either CultureBrokers or staff or the City still figuring out stuff, the Commission would need enough time to support the work itself. As Commissioner McComber mentioned that is still in flux for the City leadership and all of that together.

Commissioner Palmquist echoed the new Commissioners and indicated she was happy with where the work plan is currently at and she thought it was really helpful being new, coming in and seeing what the Commission is currently working on. She wanted to specifically echo Commissioner Haas on sticking with what the Commission has got and then the emphasis on engagement. It sounds like everyone is pretty passionate about that so finding a way on how to put a lead on it. She thought it is something they will all be focusing on in their own way, so engagement is a tough one, specifically looking at it as a specific work plan topic. She thought the current equity plan is really good coming from what the City Council wants. She indicated she was really happy with where the Commission is at right now and she thought the subgroups help to with the engagement and driving them forward as a Commission.

Vice Chair Lee explained she was fine with the current plan and made sense. She agreed with sticking with that and finishing out and as they go evaluate things and when the Commission starts to work on next year's work plan to evaluate and consider if the Commission wanted to continue to do that. For her, personally, the City Council are elected officials that are supposed to serve the resident and the City, and she did not really care what they want to do every year. She thought it was the Commission's responsibility to engage with the community and find out what is helpful and useful and what the residents would like to see happen. Also, the Commission can use their own thought and judgement to determine what they think is best for the residents. She thought the proclamations are good as well to bring to light different educational topics. She wanted to add that while the Commission does have this work plan that is being worked on, when things come up, she thought the Commission does have the flexibility to work on other items as well.

Chair Djevi explained by going back to the past a little bit, one thing he has to pause over, over the last several years has been to take a two-handed approach. When the City and different City departments have specific activities or programs that need engagement of the community, the Commission could be a liaison and help do the community engagement. For example, Just Deed, staff did most of the work and the Commission took a look at it to see if they agreed that it was something they could encourage the City Council to take on and to be able to do that they were also supposed to reach out to the community as well as to the commitment on the CultureBrokers. Specific programs that the City has and need engagement on, the Commissioners could be helpful in doing part of the engagement. That would mean that the Commission knows who to engage and who are the stakeholders so there is a plan in place to help. This is where, once the Strategic Action Plan comes out and finalized, the Commission will need to know the specific things that the Commissioners need to do.

Chair Djevi indicated that is one approach, the second approach is, when he interviewed, one thing the Council was pretty particular about was the desire to reach out to people who traditionally do not get involved in city government and this is where, in thinking about different ways of engaging people in minority communities, particularly in other marginalized groups, using the proclamations could be a way of inviting people to participate in something that is of interest for them. Something that they could see themselves in and that is how having activities linked to proclamations came about. This is also getting a diversity group, for example, in the parade, became something. The question always is going to be "from where we are, where do we go". He believed that some of the activities that the Commission has proposed around proclamations, around the parade are specific methods of reaching out to the community and getting people engaged. If they get to a point where CultureBrokers and Mr. Brooks have different ways of doing things better than he thought they can get involved. He thought the only strategy here is to better their engagement processes so that they actually do the engagement as opposed to talking a lot about it.

Chair Djevi explained what he was hearing from everyone is that they want to do engagement and are flexible about adding things from CultureBrokers and Mr. Brooks that they may have for the Commission to work on. Hopefully, the City Department, as they need engagement from the community, will involve the Commission and the Commission will get more tasks. He thought the Commission should continue with the current work plan and as things come up the Commission will modify what can be modified and maybe combine what need to be combined so the Commission is effective reaching out to the community.

Commissioner James agreed with the focus being on community involvement. He thought they needed a subgroup or a new subgroup to come back with some basic plans and ideas or have a specific agenda item each month to talk about community involvement for new ideas.

Mr. Brooks explained he appreciated everyone's commitment to weigh in on this and have a healthy discussion. This discussion is not unique to the Roseville HRIEC. Many of the HRIEC's in other communities are having the same type of discussions as well. The HRIEC's need to always evaluate where they are, what their role is in all of this, and he did think that the one thing that is unique about this Commission is that the Commission does have the added task of engagement. As a City, they are still thinking through this and many of the Commissioners have eluded that so much is still in flux and are still working through so many of the details that come with the equity action plan and some of the other initiatives that are happening throughout the City, but his group is getting to work on a communication plan that would include how they want to communicate to staff and to the community, how they want to educate the community and staff. He thought as he continued to work on that he will certainly invite the Commission into that decision as they get some more progress on it and learn about how this should all work out. He thought one of the things the Commissioner Peju indicated she would like more guidance, less from the Commission and more from City leadership, especially with time sensitive items.

Commission can do and should do, individually and maybe as a collective group, is

Mr. Brooks indicated guidance from staff is coming as they work through the communication plan.

b. Discussion on Support of 2021 Proclamations solidify what each persons' network is.

Chair Djevi indicated this item is to gain consensus on HRIEC support of 2021 Proclamations.

Commissioner Allen explained he and Commissioner McComber met and came up with a list of recommendations for the Commission to look at to decide to move forward but the list is not complete yet. He indicated he was thinking about this a lot and from looking at this, his view is that they need a bunch of people to serve on this Proclamations subgroup in order to look forward an determine what is going to be done in each month for each proclamation. This is an ongoing project, and you do not want to repeat things year after year, doing the same thing. Every year there should be at least one different thing done in the month that the Commission is looking at doing. He saw this as something the subgroup would meet regularly and report back to the Commission for more input and ideas.

Chair Djevi hoped that when the Commission looks at all of the Proclamations, try to find concrete activities, whether it is education or policy change, it should not be viewed as the responsibility of two people. It is everyone's responsibility. In the past he has proposed that each Commission should come up with educational programming or policy changes and propose it to the whole group as opposed to two people being in charge of having to find those things that have to be done. This is also where he needs each Commissioner to tell him what they are passionate about and what they want to work on so there is a concrete plan for the next six to twelve months. He would like for everyone to come prepared to the next meeting indicating what proclamation they want to work on.

Vice Chair Lee thought the report from Commissioners James and McComber was a great report with really good ideas. She thought one of the suggestions was to great report with really good ideas. She thought one of the suggestions was to coordinate more with Nine North and she indicated once the Commission is able to meet more in person maybe they could include Nine North in recognizing the Proclamations and doing some sort of programming for some of them.

Chair Djevi agreed and thought the Commission needed to be proactive and reach out to the communities.

Commissioner James indicated he was willing to continue as the lead person if the Commission would like him to do that, but he needs structure to feel comfortable and be able to work.

Commissioner Peju left the meeting at 7:28 p.m.

Commissioner Becker agreed with Commissioner James. She thought if the goal is to get a process around the proclamations than starting with the list of suggestions is a perfect entry point for these subgroups. She thought Commissioners James and McComber already put a lot of work into this and felt this provides a good enough framework to get the proclamation process going.

Chair Djevi concurred.

Mr. Brooks thought there may be a problem if all of the Commissioners gravitate toward the same few proclamations there will still be more work to be done. He thought the Commission could come up with a few suggestions for at least a few of the proclamations so they can all get covered in the next meeting and not have everyone gravitate to a few proclamations.

Chair Djevi noted if people do not come prepared to take a proclamation, then he will assign them to the Commissioners.

Adjournment

Commissioner McComber moved and Commissioner Allen seconded a motion to adjourn.

47 The Commission agreed with Youth Commissioner Xie and concurred that love is the answer.

Chair Djevi explained the Commission received an email a few weeks ago with concerns about why the City is highlighting certain proclamations. He thought the City has reached out to the individual and the issue has been addressed. He indicated the concept of color blindness has led to some of the issues seen today where because they are supposed to be color blind, certain issues are just seen and not discussed and as a result long lasting legacy of discrimination continues to be something that they live today. He noted he wanted people to see him as an individual and as a black person, he wants to be seen as a black person and does not want to be taken as he has no color. If people see him as a black person and certain things are happening to him that people would not want to happen to them, he will want that person to stand up and be an advocate for him and for people that look like him. Usually color blindness does not do that kind of advocacy. He explained he wanted to add that to what has been said already.

Youth Commissioner Xie agreed about the concept of color blindness and how it has harmed, particularly the Asian American community. People assume that America is not racist because the most successful group is Asians and Asians adapt to this America that is a majority white but really there are discrepancies between the Chinese Americans and other groups of Asian Americans financially. She thought it was better to not be color blind. She wants to be seen as Chinese American and Asian and she is proud of that and she did not want anyone to see her without her heritage because she is proud of where she came from and everything, her group, the Asian Americans, represent.

 Commissioner James always felt that the concept of color blindness is another manifestation of white privilege that if you do not have to see someone's color and do not recognize someone's ethnicity than everything is going to be fine. It is just a way of looking away for the white community and is also a way of acknowledging the negative actions and activities that have been perpetrated against people of color in this Country for a very long time. He agreed that concept is not a valid concept. He appreciated the fact that Chair Djevi and Youth Commissioner Xie have said they want to be seen for who they are because that is what they all want.

 Commissioner Peju thought Commissioner James hit it on the head of what the concept of color blindness, which she used to subscribe to as well, she is of the black color but is not a descendant of the enslaved people of the black color. She loved that Youth Commissioner Xie talked about specifically, even within the Asian community, just like on the African continent, there are different discrepancies. Data will tell them that even if they see people of black color who own property in the US, most of them are probably people who are not of enslaved people in this Country. Specifically, they are probably mostly Nigerian. She appreciated that Youth Commissioner Xie highlights the wonderful richness of the Asian community but here, Minnesota is also known for its Hmong community and there is really a lot of pain and challenges with them and the Asian community and the discrepancies there that goes on. She knew, for sure, that as someone who is of the black color, Nigerian heritage, she has to ask herself what is needed of her at this moment. She wondered if she should be a buffer for other people as a part of being on this Commission, which is another way she sees her role. Evaluating and holding things accountable and also saving that the concept of practice of color blindness is not allowing them to be held accountable and actually perpetrating the harms that they want to do away with totally.

Youth Commissioner Xie explained there are members of the Asian American community, some of whom she knows that things that the 1,900 percent increase on the Asian American hate crimes are just the media telling lies and it is not actually true. Just hearing that breaks her heart because she made a speech on anti-Asian hate crimes and just seeing that people are not acknowledging the struggles of particular races and thinking that it is the media telling lies, really breaks her heart.

Chair Djevi thought it is about facing reality and be willing to take a deep dive into some of the issues and face the issues and try to address them as opposed to trying to push them away as color blindness.

Approve Minutes

a. May 19, 2021 Human Rights, Inclusion and Engagement Commission

Chair Djevi noted on line 85, "Chair Djevi thought if the minutes could be taken as close as possible to what it-was discussed, it would be helpful." Line 274, "identifying contemporary discrimination discriminatory system of policy and practices." Line 276, "He personally thought about what led to the housing crisis in 2008 started way back in the 1990's where sub-prime mortgages starting way back in the 90's surgically targeted black communities but nothing was done about it until it hit a whole, the big population.". He indicated the way it is worded does not reflect what he said or at least what he was trying to state.

Mr. Brooks asked for clarification if this is not supposed to be a word for word or verbatim transcript, it is just a summary of what was discussed.

Chair Djevi indicated he would like that sentence edited to read: "What led to the housing crisis in 2008 started way back in the 1990's where subprime mortgages surgically targeted black communities but nothing was done until it hit the general population."

Commissioner Peju appreciated Chair Djevi mentioning this. She thought she will continue to abstain from approving the agenda because she has shared before what is being summarized and is on display right now with Chair Djevi showing that, she wondered exactly what is going on because when they are present there is a live transcript and she would love for the City to explore having access to the live transcript and also saying this was summarized by such and such a person because then ten years from now, when we are not here or whatever and someone for example wants to conduct an independent study, it does not reflect what is being said. She noted they can go back to the videos that are that as well but at least if they are doing a transcript and a draft of the meetings, that should be a way to address these discrepancies.

- Mr. Brooks explained what they can do for transparency for the public is to try to highlight the changes that are made and quickly go over them in the meeting, accept the changes and move on.

Mr. Brooks noted Lisa from CultureBrokers was unable to join the meeting so there are no updates for this item.

b. Essay Subgroup Recommendations Discussion

Commissioner James indicated the subgroup consisted of Commissioners James, Palmquist, Haas and Youth Commissioner Xie.

Chair Djevi indicated based on the staff document, Commissioner Palmquist is not a part of the subgroup.

Commissioner James explained the subgroup met and came up with a suggested topic for Commission approval. The topic is "How can our Roseville community reconnect after the pandemic? What ideas do you have for you and your fellow students to become more involved in helping to improve and unite the community?" He indicated that is the basic question and then there would be another paragraph explained a little bit more and ways of attacking the question of what kind of information the Commission is looking for from the students to respond. He reviewed the essay topic with the Commission and asked for any changes or additions to this.

Youth Commissioner Xie indicated she was not able to make it to the subcommittee meeting and asked to express her ideas at this time.

Commissioner James indicated he meant to say that at the beginning and knew that Youth Commissioner Xie has some reservations about some of the things.

Youth Commissioner Xie thanked everyone in the subgroup for being at the meeting and putting this together. She explained she had a couple of reservations about opening up the contest to include sixth graders because when she was in sixth grade, from a student perspective, she literally just started writing essays in sixth grade. She remembers looking back at her sixth grade essays, they were not that that well written and she did not like writing essays and she was a good student so she did not think they would get a lot of participation from sixth graders and she would say she was one of the top writers in sixth grade but still her essays, she just started learning about them so they were not very well written yet and she felt like opening up to charter schools and private schools and even home school students would be seen to them as intrusive because they have their own curriculum and they do not have connections to the City and the City only has connections to public schools. She thought this should be kept within the public schools, maybe home schoolers can be involved too. Also, about students submitting in their native language, she felt that would complicate the process, as much as she liked the idea because she speaks another language at home herself, but they need to figure out a way to translate it in some way or have someone that knows the language grade it. She would think the Commission would want to know what the submission from the other language is saying. She felt like the topic is too long, two questions, and as a student looking at this, it is overwhelming. She would probably have the first question be a prompt and the second question be a separate prompt or look to combine them together into one question.

Commissioner James explained one of the reasons why they included sixth through eighth grade is because that is what has been done before. It is also a part of the middle school and the same thing with the public school, including parochial, charter and home school students. Part of the discussion was if they are supposed to be a Commission that is looking to be inclusive they want to cast and widen it as much as possible and they are not recommending they judge sixth graders against eighth graders. They are recommending looking at the sixth graders, seventh graders and eighth graders by themselves and they talked about and decided to do the last essay, 2019-2020 that way as well because there is a disparity between what you are capable of doing as a sixth grader and what you are capable of doing and writing as an eighth grader and recognize that. As a former middle school teacher he understood that people grow and change each year. Their idea was to cast a wider net. As far as the various languages are concerned, they do not know what to do about that and wanted the Commission to discuss and give ideas about it if they are going to be inclusive about other languages because they do not speak all of the languages. He noted every variable that they throw into this creates another set of questions and things to decide.

The proposals listed are not meant to be they have to do this but are meant to be there for Commission discussion.

Mr. Brooks indicated this has historically been promoted at both public and private schools. This is a Citywide essay contest that any student from any of the schools can participate.

Commissioner Haas explained sometimes the most heartfelt things he has read come from people who have very little skill. To him, it is not about the quality of the work as much as the content from the heart. He would like to keep this as broad as possible, in part because it is an opportunity for people to reconnect and express themselves in a way that might not be the most quality piece of writing but could come from hearts that have some good ideas. He liked the native tongue ideas because some people can express themselves to a greater extent in their native tongue and for them to interpret it is one direction but the way he looks at it is if they force somebody to express themselves in a tongue that is not their comfortable language than it almost forces them to have to adapt to a language that is not as readily available to them. The whole intent is to allow people to express themselves. He liked the idea of it being broad because he wants to hear people's hearts.

Commissioner Lee thought as Mr. Brooks pointed out, the contest is for Roseville residents, and she indicated she lives in the northwest corner that feeds into Mounds View School District so not all of Roseville feeds into Roseville Public Schools. She noted she has brought this up in past years as well that they should advertise to the Mounds View Schools too since some Roseville residents feed into that District. To note, charter schools are public schools, and she would be for expanding it to middle schoolers. She thought kids at any age are capable of different thoughts, whether or not they are good writers and able to communicate that is another issue, but she thought giving residents the opportunity to participate if they choose to be an awesome experience. She would also be in favor of students responding in their native language. She thought as long as there was a rubric, whatever the language is in, that is how they can be more objective, or fair.

Commissioner Peju indicated she loves what Youth Commissioner Xie had to say and initially she agreed that they should not overwhelm because she always wanted to be careful that she was not, in her desire to intend good, basically like the color blindness things, that was intended for good in some ways. In her desire to intend something for good, if it is not working best then she always wants to be able to pivot and adjust to the situations. She appreciated Youth Commissioner Xie giving the Commission feedback on that because she is a student and is closer and is more current with that situation than, at least her. If the questions are too overwhelming, she was open to hear some other suggestions. She thought the biggest thing here, that the feedback that Youth Commissioner Xie was giving the Commission and the clarification that Commissioners James and Haas gave has been answered a little bit by Commissioner Lee in terms of if the Commission does bring, this is kind of going > to be a big production and in some ways this is a really great attempt for them to do their engagement and inclusion all in one. This is really a great platform for that. If they do that they should have a rubric and a plan. She knew that from the community relations coordinator they have like over seventy-five languages in Roseville or something like that and she wondered that in addition to Commissioner Lee's idea about the rubric, it would be also another great way to involve people who could translate that for them and do something that becomes meaningful in this endeavor. They could get someone to translate and do the rubric with categories and stuff. She was in agreement with Commissioner Haas that there are some students, especially in the schools, that they still think in that native language and maybe there are things that they might now catch if they have them do the essay in the official language i.e.: english, right now.

> Chair Djevi thought they have always done sixth grade through eighth or nineth grade and felt it should be kept at that for all of the reasons other Commissioners have already mentioned. Two years ago when they had for the first time the Spanish language participations they had the teachers help the Commission grade it so going forward that could be something they try to do. He did not know what other languages they would have entries from but once they do, perhaps, the teachers of those students could help grade as the Spanish teachers have done in the past. Two years ago there was talk about translating and the question of having a translated version of a tough process in a different language may lead them to miss the point. The substances sometimes when people express, things do not necessarily translate word for word from one language to another and translating may lose some of the content of what students may be trying to say which is why the Commission thought it was better to have the teachers who speak the language do the grading first so that they could have, it would be reflective of what the kids may be trying to say it. He asked how they will reach out to homeschool children because he loved the idea and thought it was a great idea, but he wondered how they would find those kids to reach them, so they have this essay opportunity.

Commissioner Haas explained he has actually homeschooled for twenty-four years and there are communities out there with co-ops and groups and he indicated he would be happy to reach out to some of those groups once this is finalized.

Chair Djevi thought that would be a great idea.

Commissioner Haas indicated homeschooling now allows kids to participate in after school sports and events in the School District and is actually more integrated with the public school system than what many people think. He liked the idea because it is another avenue of inclusivity and a good opportunity for the homeschooling community to engage as well.

Chair Djevi indicated he loved the idea.

Commissioner James explained he did not know all of the ins and outs of Minnesota's public-school requirements but in New Jersey if someone is homeschooling children the school has to know that is being done because every child in New Jersey, at a certain age has to be registered and tracked by the local school where they live. He was not sure that was the case here in Minnesota but if it is they could also tap into the school system and explain to them what the Commission was doing to find out if they could get a list or somehow get things published through them about this. That is another avenue the Commission could use to reach out.

Commissioner James explained as far as the native language is concerned, he thought this was another opportunity for them to think about ways of engaging those communities that they do not normally reach. He thought that is a way to draw in other communities that are under served by the City of Roseville. He noted a rubric is always used every year for grading the essays.

Commissioner Becker thought regarding the two-sentence question there might be a nice way of saying "following the pandemic, what ideas do you have for you and your fellow students to become more involved in helping to improve and unite the community.", she thought that would be a way to set up the first question as more of a timeframe for a set up to the second part. She also wanted to share her extreme appreciation that it came up to do this in other languages because she thought that was a perfect way to engage with the community and she would volunteer to be on a sub-subcommittee or as an individual to reach out to everyone. She thought it would be good to do that on the forefront, to try to find translators that could be a part of the review session and to also communicate this opportunity to people in their own community as well that the Commission may not be aware of.

Commissioner Peju thought this really gives the Commission an opportunity to do inclusion and engagement and even just the conversations that the Commission is having. The only thing she wants the Commission to consider is that this is a lot of work, and she would like the City to consider some kind of incentive for the Commission to engage the people who speak multiple languages.

Chair Djevi wondered if Commissioner Peju was thinking of the City paying people to help the Commission because that was not clear to him.

Commissioner Peju indicated incentives do not need to be monetary for her but she thought when it comes to issues of community engagement and civic engagement and Roseville is sort of the capital of community engagement, they do have most of their demographic people in their second or third chapter and their resources are different from some of the people that they want to engage and she thought they really have to be cognizant that if they are asking and notice that they do not have as much engagement, are they incentivizing it in any way. It does not need to be limited to monetary terms but there are ways the City can incentivize it to make sure that they are engaging and including.

Chair Djevi proposed the Commission come back to how they can use this in a larger way to engage the community as a tool for engagement and perhaps expand the discussion. He thought for tonight's discussion he would like them to stay on the topic of how the question looks and if the Commission needs to make any changes so that they can get the questions out to the teachers.

Commissioner James indicated the Commission needed to decide the questions at this meeting and the subgroup will meet again and will discuss and flush out some of the other ideas brought up and come back with the next phase, so this stays on track and are able to get this out and completed.

Youth Commissioner Xie thought her words have gotten twisted a little bit as the discussion went along. She indicated she was not against having other languages but was a more realistic person. If they are going to have other languages than this is a great opportunity to utilize their connections. Even though she talked about love and acceptance n the beginning of the meeting, sadly this is not realistic because she can just imagine someone who is a native english speaker getting upset over another essay in another language winning over him or her essay because she is still in school, and she has heard people say varying things about people that speak other languages.

Mr. Brooks thought Commissioner Becker's idea to combine the sentences and essentially add "following the Pandemic", he indicated he actually had a similar idea just doing it on the end. He thought this was an easy way and wondered if anyone else was supportive of that. He thought it would be good to get consensus on that sooner than later. As the Commission continues to move through the rest of the details and working the rest of the logistics out, they definitely can and will promote this to Mounds View but also know that they do already participate in an essay contest for the City of Shoreview. He indicated there is one thing the Commission needs to talk about is discuss the prizes, so he has an idea for budgeting purposes. He also wanted the Commission to think about practicality and capacity as they go into this.

Commissioner Macomber explained regarding the different languages, she thought it was highly unlikely that there will be a lot of different languages submitted in the contest but one way they can address that is the same way that people in rural communities address it when they want to be welcoming for deaf and hard of hearing but it is difficult to get translators so they use an accommodation statement that says if you are going to need an accommodation that is kind of unusual to let them know in advance and they will do everything they can to make that happen. That would be one way to do it. Another thing is she would love to work with Commissioner Becker on the locating of translators. She thought the second question could be shortened and often brevity is easier for younger students to deal with. For question two she suggested the following: "How could you and your fellow student become more involved in helping to improve and unite the community." She indicated it 404 removes about four words and makes it a little easier. 405 406 Chair Djevi indicated he liked the suggestions made by Commissioners Macomber 407 and Becker on how to integrate the two sentences to finalize the question. 408 409 Commissioner James read how the question should be changed. "how can our 410 Roseville community reconnect after the pandemic? Following the pandemic, how 411 could you and your fellow students become more involved in helping to improve and 412 unite the community?" 413 414 Mr. Brooks read his version of the question to the Commission. "Following the 415 pandemic, how could you and your fellow students become more involved in helping 416 to improve and unite the community?" 417 418 Youth Commissioner Xie thought the first question could be removed and the 419 question to read "Following the pandemic, what ideas do you have for you and your 420 fellow students to reconnect and become more involved in helping to improve and 421 unit the community?" 422 423 Commissioner James thought the "reconnect" was an important part and he thought 424 Youth Commissioner Xie's idea, from his perspective was a way of eliminating the 425 first sentence and making it a single sentence. 426 427 Chair Djevi thought "reconnect" will still be in the sentence proposed but instead of 428 having two different sentences, reconnect will still be in there. 429 430 Commissioner Haas read his idea for the essay question "How can you and your 431 fellow students become more involved in helping to improve and unite the Roseville 432 community after the pandemic?" He indicated it does not have reconnect in it but the 433 units and becoming involved sort of talks about reconnecting as well. 434 435 Commissioner Peju thought there was a consensus that the essay question should be 436 one sentence. 437 438 Commission consensus was to move forward with the following essay question: 439 "following the pandemic, how can you and your fellow students become more 440 involved in heling to improve, reconnect, and unite the Roseville community?", 441 submitted by Youth Commissioner Xie. 442 443 c. Work Plan Updates 444 Chair Djevi thought the Commission had a robust discussion on this at the special 445 meeting and the strategy going forward is the Commission is flexible and are going to 446 be flexible for things maybe coming their way from the City Council and 447 CultureBrokers and in the meantime to continue doing what they have been doing and 448

be ready to drop things that they do not have the time to complete. He reviewed the 449 projects with the Commission. 450 451 Commissioner James thought on the Commission Onboarding project to wait another 452 month or so and reach out to new Commissioners one more time to see if there was 453 any suggestions of anything new to do for next year. He indicated this could be put 454 into a format, so they do not have to deal with it again for additional things to add to 455 it. 456 457 Chair Dievi indicated Community Outreach is something they have been working on 458 and is going to be a combination of everything they are trying to do through 459 proclamations, through the parade, through the essay contest. He noted a list was 460 created a few years ago but he was not sure where the list went to. 461 462 Mr. Brooks indicated staff does have a list and the Commission can continue to add to 463 it as well. Something that was mentioned at the last meeting and could go into this 464 topic is also exploring what community engagement and community outreach looks 465 like to the Commission. 466 467 Chair Djevi indicated the other thing he asked every Commissioner to do is to think 468 about what each Commissioner is passionate about and what they would like to lead 469 on. He indicated he would like to combine the work plan as it stands right now with 470 the proclamations so there are Commissioners in each column for both the 471 proclamations and the work plan items. 472 473 Chair Djevi indicated on the Essay Contest project the Commissioners involved are 474 Commissioner James, Youth Commissioner Xie, Commissioner Haas, and 475 Commissioner Palmquist. 476 477 Chair Dievi explained on the Rosefest Parade item, for 2022 he would like to 478 continue to be on this work plan as well as Commissioner Allen. He asked if anyone 479 else would like to be on this committee for 2022. 480 481 Mr. Brooks indicated the Commission will need to come back to this at some point 482 because this item in the workplan is referencing 2021 and the Rosefest Parade was 483 cancelled. 484 485 Chair Djevi explained regarding the Community Feedback Response item the 486 Commissioners involved are Commissioners Lee, himself, and Youth Commissioner 487 Xie. 488 489 Chair Djevi noted on the Commission Recruitment, Commissioner Interviews the 490 Strategy Team is in charge of that. He indicated Commission Onboarding item 491 currently Commissioners James and Youth Commissioner Xie are listed. He asked if 492 anyone else was interested in this item.

Human Rights, Inclusion and Engagement Commission Minutes June 16, 2021, 2021 – Draft Minutes Page 12 of 16

Commissioner James thought unless Chair Djevi thought this was something they needed to continue to work on, he thought it was pretty much complete and would not need to be done in future years, except for possible changes.

Chair Djevi reviewed the Proclamation Support item and indicated Commissioner James and Commissioner Macomber were working on this.

Chair Djevi explained that himself and Commissioner Allen were working on Community Outreach and asked if anyone else would be interested.

Commissioner Becker indicated she would like to be on the subcommittee for the Community Outreach item, specifically working on communication tactics and the outreach.

Chair Djevi asked Commissioner Peju what item she was interested in being a part of. He indicated he would like Commissioner Peju to join the Community Outreach team and Commissioner Palmquist will join the Community Feedback group. He thought about adding Commissioner Becker to the 2022 Rosefest Parade.

Other New Business or Reports

a. Support of 2021 Proclamations Discussion

Chair Djevi reviewed the current City proclamations and asked if the Commission were going to want to highlight each of the proclamations or should they pick a few and go through a cycle where a few would be highlighted each year.

Chair Djevi indicated he would like to have a Commissioner volunteer for each of the proclamations to work on.

Commissioner Macomber explained in the past the Commission chose several proclamations to do a deeper dive, consult the community and plan a celebration that developed ideas which emerged from that outreach to that community. For most of the other months, there might have been programming with the library or a display at City Hall. Not every month had a very labor-intensive job associated with it. She thought it would be helpful to review what the Commission is looking at and what kind of commitment it is for someone to take on "Americans with Disability Month", what would the expectation be of what the Commissioner would deliver.

Commissioner Peju indicated she would like to work on the October Proclamation "Indigenous People's Day".

Mr. Brooks stated this is something that he talked to Chair Djevi about previously. As they are going through this, he certainly supports the Commissioners going out into the community and engaging and figuring out what the priorities are, but he did not want the Commissioners to feel like they had to fill in something for every single proclamation. Maybe for some of the months it might just be a communication campaign which they can work with the Communications Team to do something and update the website and provide additional services. He explained the City is planning a Hispanic Heritage event for 2022. That is something staff will be asking the Commission for some resources on and to consider as well. He thought it would be nice to prioritize the proclamations, but they did not need to assign a big project or task to every single proclamation.

Commissioner James thought if the Commission could add a couple more people to the proclamation subgroup that they as a subgroup, along with Mr. Brooks, meeting on this together can come back with a plan as to how this should proceed and if there are specific ideas that people have that they would like to bring in for a particular month proclamation. He thought there needed to be more groundwork planning to be done and it would be helpful as they move forward to know what areas the Commissioners would be interested in so that they can be included as the subgroup gets more specific. He was looking at setting the groundwork for all of next year as well as the rest of 2021.

Mr. Brooks thought if it helps to take some of the load off, he thought one of the things they possibly could do it maybe have the staff communications teamwork through what their communication plan would be for communicating out to the public, updating the website, etc. to at least make sure there is the awareness component attached to every single one of these. That is going to be work, no matter what, even if it is routine. Once that is done, the Commission could pick and choose which ones to focus on and maybe doing a policy initiative or an event like the Hispanic Heritage event. He indicated he was worried about capacity and how much it is going to take to attach something big to each one of these. He noted that is something he can do.

Chair Djevi saw the point Mr. Brooks is making and thought it was a fair point. The question is when they start thinking about proclamations, would November be the time to start thinking about the January proclamations or are there people that may be interested in a proclamation and would want to lead on that and start to do the work now and be ready when the proclamation month comes.

Mr. Brooks thought if there would be a subgroup meeting to talk through this, he would have them prioritize a few of these proclamations and focus all of their time and attention on those.

Commissioner Palmquist reiterated about what Commissioner James said previously about adding another person to the subgroup, maybe that would help quite a bit if they were the ones to pick and choose and what proclamations will be the big ones where people would be assigned ahead of time to work on months in advance. She thought that is a smart plan to get a name next to the month as soon as possible and send the list to the subgroup for the subgroup to reach out to the individuals.

Chair Djevi thought the first thing needed to be done was to expand the subgroup and later add names to the monthly proclamation list and looking at a long-term plan.

Mr. Brooks asked if everyone was willing to take on a monthly proclamation. He indicated he wanted to try to take the load off of the Commission and put it onto staff but if everyone was wanting to engage and reach out to the community than he did not want to take that away from them.

Commissioner Haas explained for him, personally and his schedule, he might be out of the Country for two weeks and he was having a hard time saying that he would be a lead on one of these things. He also thought there needed to be some coordination with the City in how this is presented and how it is communicated.

Mr. Brooks indicated the communication on this is always going to come from the City and they are already, in many ways doing it so just formalizing what they are going to do each month for these proclamations is what he was hoping to do.

Commissioner Haas indicated he liked that idea personally but was not speaking for the group.

Commissioner Peju indicated she did not know that staff and the communications team would take the lead on the proclamations, and she was even more grateful now. She thought the City definitely needs to take the lead on this to facilitate it and the more that happens the better because there is a lot on every month to get done. If it happens behind the scenes, she knows she will be gratified.

Chair Djevi reviewed what the Commission has previously done regarding the proclamations. He asked if the Commission should choose a few proclamations to highlight every year and since there are fourteen of them, do a cycle where the City highlights two or three and then the next year continue to highlight a few more. He asked if that is the route the Commission wants to take. The idea of having people step up to work on a proclamation is exciting for him. He also saw the point Mr. Brooks was making and if the City staff is taking the lead on this than he does not necessarily want to be leading on it. The question is how the Commission can be helpful. He proposed the Commission extend the subgroup to continue to communicate with the City through Mr. Brooks and see where things can coalesce so that there is not duplicate work.

The Commission concurred.

Chair Djevi currently indicated Commissioner James and Commissioner Macomber are leading the project. He asked if there were any volunteers to join them.

Commissioner Haas indicated he would join the subgroup.

ITEM DESCRIPTION: Conversion Therapy Ban Ordinance Discussion

Background

Overwhelming research has proven conversion therapy or similar treatments to "cure" youth of thoughts and feelings associated with sexual orientation, gender identity or expression is a dangerous practice causing both short and long-term harm. Conversion therapy is also referred to as reparative therapy, ex-gay therapy, or sexual orientation change methods. LGBTQIA+ people are at a significant risk of depression, anxiety, substance abuse, and suicide, only to be further heightened by conversion therapy practices.

19 states across the U.S. have prohibited the practice of conversion therapy to protect LGBTQIA+ youth. In the absence of state legislation, cities across Minnesota are passing ordinances to protect vulnerable LGBTQIA+ youth in their jurisdictions. In addition to protecting youth from this human rights violation, an ordinance prohibiting the practice of conversion therapy sends a message of inclusion and equity to the LGBTQIA+ community who live, work, and visit the city of Roseville.

The following Minnesota cities have already passed ordinances or proclamations denouncing conversion therapy practices within city limits: Bloomington, Duluth, Minneapolis, Red Wing, Robbinsdale, Saint Paul, West Saint Paul, and Winona.

The following medical and mental health professional organizations have all made statements denouncing the practice of conversion therapy in support of research:

National Association of Social Workers - Minnesota American Academy of Child Adolescent Psychiatry American Association of Pediatrics American Association for Marriage/Family Therapy American College of Physicians American Counseling Association American Medical Association

Roseville Human Rights, Inclusion and Engagement Commission

Recommendation

Following the HRIEC's proclamation recognizing LGBTQIA+ Month in June 2021 and the commission's recommendation to city council to adopt an ordinance prohibiting conversion therapy within the city, council has requested HRIEC conduct additional research, draft the ordinance, and identify a community engagement strategy for the commission and city council to receive public input for consideration of the ordinance.

Municipal Ban Common FAQ's

Provided by OutFront MN

Terminology

Q: What is conversion therapy?

A: Conversion Therapy is when someone tries to change another person's sexual orientation, gender identity, or expression.

Conversion Therapy is also sometimes referred to as "reparative therapy," "ex-gay therapy," or "sexual orientation change efforts." Conversion therapy can include a variety of ineffective and unsafe practices aimed at changing a person's sexual orientation or efforts to change a person's gender identity or expression.

Q: What is gender identity?

A: Gender identity is an important part of identity, and can be expressed through appearance and behavior. Gender identity is how we perceive ourselves, and how we wish to be perceived by others. A person may identify as male, female, non-binary, Two-Spirit, gender non-conforming, among others.

Q: What is sexual orientation?

A: A part of someone's identity that includes their sexual, romantic, and/or emotional attraction to another person(s). A person may identify as gay, straight, bisexual, lesbian, aesexual, pansexual, aromantic, demisexual, among others.

Q: Is conversion therapy harmful?

A: The practice of conversion therapy has been found to be dangerous to an individual's mental and physical wellbeing. There is no scientifically valid evidence that supports the practice of conversion therapy. In fact, the American Psychological Association, the American Medical Association, and the American Academy of Pediatrics both oppose and condemn conversion therapy.

Legal

Q: Should we use uniform ordinance language, or create our own?

A: It's best to use the language that has been passed in other cities. Each one of these ordinances has language derived from the Denver Ban. This ordinance was deliberated on by many lawyers and policy makers. It is the most legally sound and ethical for survivors of conversion therapy.

Q: Why a fine rather than a criminal charge?

A: There are a few reasons why it is best to only use administrative fines as consequences. First and foremost, it is the most ethical means for justice. If this were a criminal charge, survivors of conversion therapy would have to seek justice through the police department. Aside from the long, fraught history between the LGBTQ+ community and police-- it can be traumatizing for young people and vulnerable adults to have to press charges and potentially testify in court simply to report conversion therapy. We want conversion therapy to be reported. And, we want conversion therapy to actually stop. We know that by making the process difficult, inaccessible, and possibly traumatizing-- we are not doing any of these things. Please contact Wendy Murphy, Deputy City Attorney at City of Bloomington, MN for more insight on this.

Second, proposing criminal charges is a threat to the integrity of the ordinance. While this ordinance does not propose sanctions on religious based services, attaching criminal consequences to this therapy heightens our opposition's radar. It is possible that straying away from administrative consequences could lead to a lawsuit if not from the high courts.

Seriously, please stick to criminal consequences.

Reporting

An important step to consider before proposing an ordinance is-- how will survivors report? Will they make a report through the city council? The city clerk's office? The city attorney's office? If the plan is poorly thought out or executed, you may risk causing more harm to survivors of conversion therapy. It is important to figure out these steps before the ordinance is passed so that survivors can seek justice immediately.

Our recommendation:

We appreciate the Duluth model that grassroots community members created. In this model, survivors can make a report in person or online.

Website: The Duluth Website has loads of information and an FAQ page that is accessible and trauma informed.

Reporting Mechanism: The online portal asks questions in an accessible, trauma informed manner. A survivor can easily access this portal and file a report on their own, or with a trusted adult.

Advocacy: Duluth also has an option to go through the reporting process accompanied by a contracted, trusted community advocate. Duluth is currently working with Lifehouse, a trusted local organization that explicitly works with LGBTQ+ youth in crisis. This allows for the survivor to be aware of all of their options while working with someone who understands their unique needs.

City of Roseville	Communications Plan Updated June 21, 2021
Today's Date:

Project End: _____ This will be different for each problem statement

Scope: This communications plan is intended to serve as a guide to proactively think through communication strategy to internal and external stakeholders to inform, educate, consult, and involve/collaborate on the SREAP problem statements purpose and progress.

- To Inform our stakeholders. This information sharing will be used to help them understand the SREAP purpose, why we are doing it, and what we hope to accomplish from it. Example: Rollout the SREAP to all employees so they know what it is.
- To Consult with our stakeholders. There will be times when we will want to obtain feedback on decisions, alternatives, options, etc. Our communication points will be tailored for this type of situation when it arises. Example: Gathering the Voice of the Customer perspective on the hiring process. (Problem Statement 1.4)
- To Involve/Collaborate with our stakeholders. There may be times when we will want to ensure that the stakeholder's concerns and aspirations are directly reflected in the process. We will tailor communication pieces to that as well. Example: Engaging customer to determine goals of the hiring process. (Problem Statement 1.6)
