MEMORANDUM

To: Parks and Recreation Commission
From: Lonnie Brokke
Date: September 27, 2011
Re: Notes for Commission Meeting on Tuesday, October 4, 2011

1. Introductions/Public Comment Invited

Commissioners and staff will be introduced. Public participation and public comment is encouraged.

2. Approval of Minutes of the September 6, 2011 Meeting

Enclosed is a copy of the minutes of September 6, 2011. Please be prepared to approve or amend.

Requested Commission Action: Approve/amend minutes of the meeting of September 6, 2011

3. Staff Introductions

It has been suggested that Roseville Parks and Recreation Staff be introduced at a meeting in order for Commissioners to put a name to a face. Several will be in attendance at the October meeting to be introduced and talk of their backgrounds and roles in the Department. Included in your packet is an organizational chart that will be reviewed prior to introductions.

Requested Commission Action: Staff introductions

4. Commissioner Community Engagement Task Force Report

Greg Simbeck and Randall Doneen serve on the Human Rights Commission Community Engagement Task Force as a representative of the Parks and Recreation Commission. Simbeck and Doneen will be prepared to report on the latest progress on the community forum effort.

Requested Commission Action: Commission Discussion and feedback

5. 2012 Commission Meeting Calendar

Review and discuss meeting dates for 2012. Draft calendar is attached.

Requested Commission Action: Discuss and set annual meeting calendar for 2012

6. Master Plan Implementation Discussion

This is continued discussion about the Park Renewal Program "path to implementation".

Commission representatives and staff will plan to review progress to date. This is a time to gather continued guidance/direction from the entire commission.

Requested Commission Action: Discuss progress on the implementation process and provide continued guidance

7. Tree Inventory

As you are aware, the City has been in the process of updating the public tree inventory over the past several years utilizing existing technology and volunteers. The Emerald Ash Borer (EAB) grant received in January, 2010 allowed the City to purchase a tree software program specifically to aid in compiling the tree inventory and documentation. The grant allowed for a limited amount of resources to facilitate the inventory including hiring the volunteers to expedite the inventory.

To provide you with a general idea on the information provided by the tree inventory attached are the following documents that will eventually be included in a full Public Tree Master Plan, they are a:

- Public Tree and Master Plan data map for Constellation M in the SE Sector as an example
- Pie chart of the distribution of all trees on city boulevards
- Pie chart of the distribution of all trees in city parks
- Pie chart of the distribution of trees at city facilities, e.g. city hall/skating center, fire stations
- Bar chart of the condition of all trees
- Bar chart of the condition of all ash trees
- Bar chart of the diameter inch of all ash trees

It is anticipated that you will be spending additional time over the winter reviewing and providing advice on the overall Public Tree Master Plan and the Public Tree Inventory.

Staff will plan to review the inventory information with you at your meeting.

Requested Commission Action: Discuss and Comment

8. Directors Report

9. Other

10. Adjournment

ROSEVILLE PARKS AND RECREATION COMMISSION
DRAFT MINUTES OF MEETING OF SEPTEMBER 6, 2011
ROSEVILLE CITY HALL ~ 6:30PM

PRESENT: Azer, Diedrick, Doneen, Etten, D. Holt, M. Holt, Pederson, Ristow, Simbeck

ABSENT:

STAFF: Brokke, Anfang

1. INTRODUCTIONS/ROLL CALL/PUBLIC COMMENT

2. APPROVAL OF MINUTES – August 2, 2011 MEETING

Commission Recommendation:

Minutes for the August 2, 2011 meeting were approved unanimously.

3. COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT TASK FORCE REPORT

Greg Simbeck and Randall Doneen updated the Commission on the status of the Community Engagement Task Force. Task Force has been involved in working on topic specific committees. The Task Force is planning on reporting back to the City Council in October or November.

A Community Forum is scheduled for September 14, 2011 at the Roseville Skating Center. The forum is an opportunity for the Community to provide input to the task force for their report back to the Council.

Doneen commented on how the Master Plan process to date has been a model example of a successful Community Engagement process.

4. MASTER PLAN IMPLEMENTATION DISCUSSION

Brokke briefed the Commission on the status of the bond process and project planning progress. Project planning is going to be complicated in order to maintain program offerings and facility use without (or at least minimal) interruption. Brokke explained the upcoming processes for this first step in the implementation process. The next task includes final review of proposed projects and defining those projects with costs and possible timing considerations along with sector/district designation to comply with bonding requirements. Once the projects are more defined a public hearing will be schedule (a 30 day notification is required), following the public hearing the council can authorize the bond sale. The planning team is looking to hold the required public hearing and issue the bonds sometime before the first of the year.

Etten initiated a discussion on the compiled input from the July 28th community meeting. Attendees weighed in on their recommended priorities and potential missing projects and opportunities from the proposed renewal plan. Brokke also spoke about a recent all-staff meeting that reviewed the park renewal program and discussed priorities and content.

Commissioners recommended finding ways to keep neighborhoods and community members involved in planning and reviewing sooner rather than later in an effort to continue the momentum and energy realized through the master planning process. Dave Holt inquired into what can be accomplished while waiting for the final bonding requirements to take place.

Harold Ristow commented on the significance of including shelter development early in the renewal program so as to involve the community and demonstrate how beneficial this is to the entire community. Along this same thought process, Etten spoke to how significant development of Central Park at Lexington might be early in the project timeline. CP Lexington is a heavily used community park as well as a very visual location that could act as a showcase for the renewal program. Pederson reminded the Commission that work in Central Park can potentially be supplemented by financial support from local foundations and friends organizations.

5. BUDGET DISCUSSION

Brokke reviewed the most recent City Manager budget that included a number of adjusted cuts. The Park Improvement Program (PIP) continues to be identified for reductions in the 2012 and 2013 budget. It is very important that all resources remain in the Parks and Recreation Budget and that a thoughtful approach be given to the future Park Improvement Program. Commissioners were reminded that the Park Improvement Program has become more of a maintenance based operation rather than a development or improvement program. The City Council has asked for staff to share a vision for future maintenance needs and how future funding may be structured.

- o Etten commented on the need to implement both a park improvement program that provides for development and a park enhancement program that provides required maintenance to keep up our extensive park system.
- o D. Holt recommended renaming the Park Improvement Program to better identify what the funding is for, why it is needed and what the intended purpose of the funding is. Holt also commented on how he sees a large portion of the bonding money going towards maintenance needs that would have been taken care of with appropriate park improvement funding.

6. DIRECTORS REPORT

- o Staff will be taking a proposal to the Council on Monday for rebuilding the Lake Bennet fishing pier using DNR funding for the materials and maintenance staff for labor.
- o Public Tree Master Plan Update – Boulevard tree inventory complete, park tree inventory 80% complete. Staff will present the update to Council in late September and to the Commission in October.
- o Arboretum Celebration Walk Update – The Central Park Foundation has contributed needed funding to replace the current engraved bricks. Over the years, the older bricks have gotten harder to read. A foundation member researched other brick companies and found one that provides an engraved brick that guarantees it will not fade or wear away. Because this is an out-of-state company the replacement and ordering process is more complicated than in the past and has required scheduling of orders and installment 2 times each year – orders placed January 15th and July 15th each year with installation in the spring and fall.
- o The Geyen Memorial in Bruce Russell Park is planned to be completed in September, the walkways will be poured in the coming weekends and plantings will follow.

7. OTHER

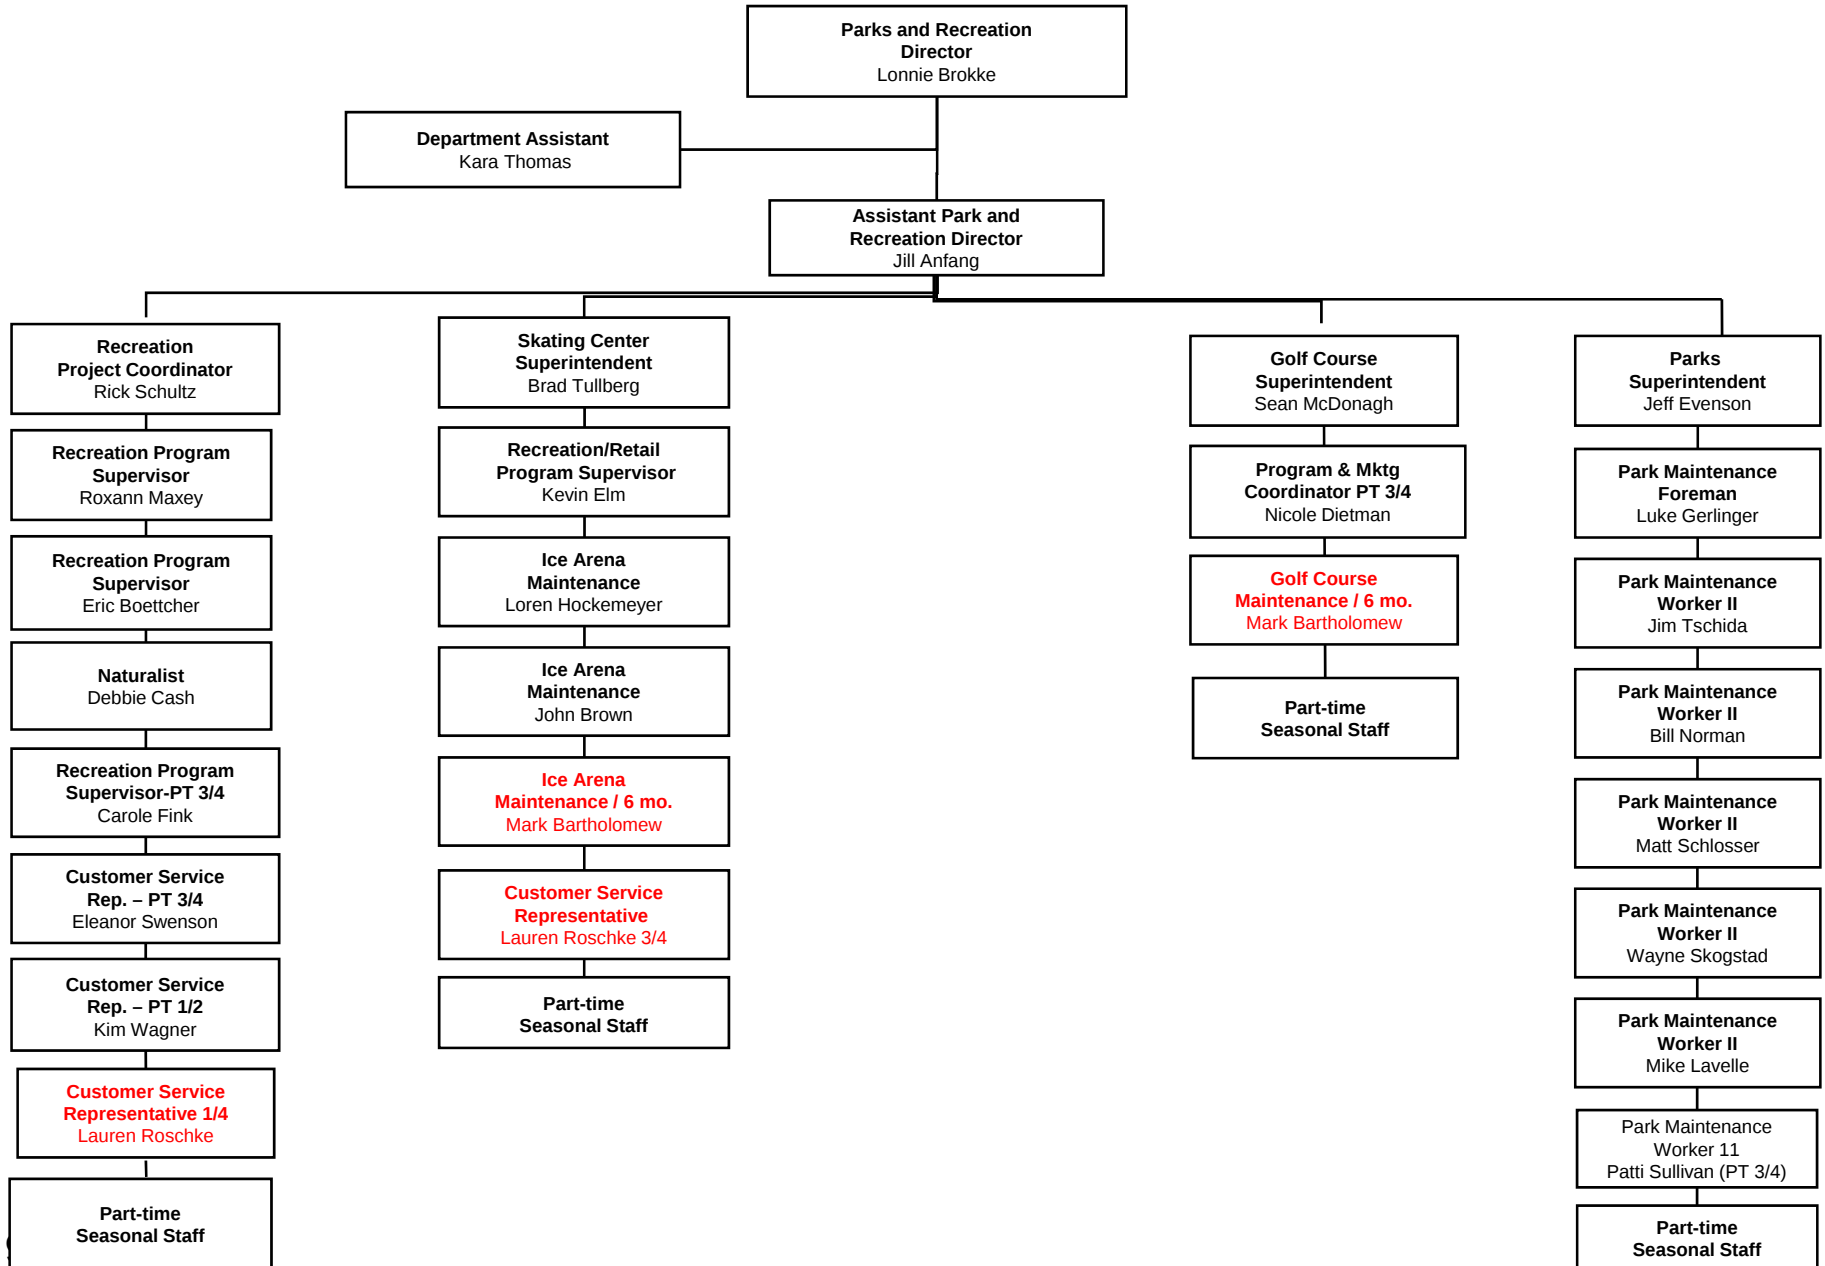

- o Etten reminded the Community of upcoming events – Wild Rice Festival on September 17, 2011 and the Arboretum Plant Sale on September 15, & 16, 2011.

- o Ristow encouraged Commissioners to contact Mayor and Council members to thank them for their support of the Master Plan Implementation. Ristow also commented that a Community Center would be a good addition to Roseville and this $19M bond for renewal and land acquisition is a good opportunity to demonstrate to the community that this is money well spent and a possible local sales tax is a good option for funding a future community center. Ristow also complimented the Commission for being an aggressive group that is on the right track.
- o Etten thanked the citizens of Roseville, at all levels, for their work on the Master Plan and their support of its implementation.
- o D. Holt inquired about Reservoir Woods activity – the foundation has been poured, the project will continue into the next year.

Meeting adjourned at 7:45pm

Respectfully Submitted,
Jill Anfang, Assistant Director

Parks and Recreation Department

Ash borer tunnels into historic St. Paul area

Article by: ROCHELLE OLSON, Star Tribune
September 26, 2011

The emerald ash borer's path of tree destruction has spread to St. Paul's stately and historic Summit Avenue, a startling distance from the sites of previously known infestations.

The revelation means more than 1,000 trees in the area are at high risk, mostly on the streets that run parallel to Summit and west to the Mississippi River, where blocks full of ash trees were planted long ago.

The city's Parks and Recreation Department confirmed Monday the infestation of at least six trees in the area of Dale Street and Summit Avenue, approximately 3 miles from the city's initial outbreak sites.

"It's not great news for the citizens here, that's for sure," said Rob Venette, U.S. Forest Service research biologist, who marked tree stumps Monday and loaded them onto trucks for study. He showed how the zigzag borings of the insect's deadly dining were visible in "galleries" on the trees' bark, a sign of advanced infestation. "It's a frustrating insect because we're always playing catch-up."

The confirmation signaled the spread of the tree-killing insect despite control and containment efforts that cost the city $1 million a year.

The Summit area discovery wasn't unexpected, but was still disappointing. "It was a matter of when, not if," parks spokesman Brad Meyer said as workers methodically felled trees. "Emerald ash borer is here to stay."

The department will now direct more resources to the public trees in the Summit area. Most of the endangered ash trees are not on Summit itself, but extend along numerous blocks parallel to the avenue.

Venette said researchers plan to release Chinese wasps as an attempted biocontrol agent in the Summit area "as soon as possible," perhaps this week. The wasps were released earlier this summer in St. Anthony Park, the only previously known site of infestation in St. Paul, as well as in areas of Minneapolis.

Venette said it's far too early to tell if the wasps, a natural predator of the borer in their native Asia, have made progress in stemming the spread. "This is a case where people need our research results yesterday," Venette said.

Because some trees won't show telltale signs of infestation for up to five years, identifying the scope of the problem isn't easy.

Indications are that the six recently removed trees may have been infested for up to three years. St. Paul officials said the confirmations didn't indicate flaws in the city's borer fighting efforts because of the lag time between infestation and confirmation.

St. Paul alone has 30,000 ash trees on public land with another 100,000 or so on private property the city doesn't control.

Since at least 2009, the borer has spread in the metro area to Minneapolis, Falcon Heights and Shoreview. Outstate, it's been found in La Crescent, in the southeast corner, in two locations near Winona and in rural Houston County.

St. Paul has been fighting the borer on several fronts. The city is removing and replacing about 1,000 of its ash trees each year, sometimes taking out all the trees on a block.

The city has allowed homeowners willing to pay for inoculations to keep trees if they treat them on schedule. The city also is inoculating selected healthy trees in infested areas.

Since the metallic green ash beetle was accidentally introduced into the United States, it has killed millions of trees in 15 states. The borer larvae kill by tunneling into ash trees, then feeding on and disrupting the flow of nutrients. They leave telltale one-eighth-inch D-shaped exit wounds in the bark and serpentine tunnels underneath it. Extensive woodpecker damage is also an indicator. The borers are active from May to September.

EMERALD ASH BORER IN ST. PAUL

- Six trees were confirmed with infestation near Summit Avenue, approximately 3 miles from St. Paul's initial outbreak sites.
- Trees don't show signs of infestation for up to five years.
- There are about 130,000 ash trees in St. Paul.
- Chinese wasps, a natural predator of the emerald ash borer, will be released in the area soon.

About the instructor:

The summer before Chris Hazlehut started high school is the first time he took up the guitar. During junior high school Chris' passion for music flourished and he has reached heights he could not imagine. Nearly 15 years later Chris has a degree in music performance and is teaching and playing professionally around the Twin Cities. From jazz, to blues, soul/R&B, acoustic....it really doesn't matter to him. He loves it all and wants to learn, play and teach it all.
