

Imagine ROSEVILLE

An ongoing series of discussions to ensure Roseville is a community where people make connections amidst changing demographics

Join us for a discussion

This is the second in a series of discussions about community, policing and race. In October more than 200 community members came together to share their reactions to a police shooting in a neighboring community. Participants expressed many thoughtful concerns and hopes for the community. At this gathering, participants will choose from several topics of discussion that were identified at the first meeting. Topics include police accountability, traffic stops, profiling, living in a multicultural community, encouraging community involvement, and looking at our educational system. All are welcome – you need not have attended the first meeting to participate. Please review the report and a video from the first meeting at www.cityofroseville.com/imagineroseville.
